DETAILED ACTION

Claims 27-35, 37 and 38 are pending.

Response to Amendment

Applicant's amendment and response filed on 4/30/2008 has been received and entered into the case.

Claims 1-26 and 36 have been canceled, claims 27-35 have been withdrawn from consideration as being drawn to non-elected subject matter, and claims 37 and 38 have been considered on the merits. All arguments have been fully considered.

The claim rejection under 35 U.S.C. §101 has been withdrawn due to the amendment.

The claim rejection under 35 U.S.C. §102 has been withdrawn due to the amendment.

The declaration filed on 4/30/2008 under 37 CFR 1.131 has been considered but is ineffective to overcome the Seed reference.

The evidence submitted is insufficient to establish a conception of the invention prior to the effective date of the Seed reference. While conception is the mental part of the inventive act, it must be capable of proof, such as by demonstrative evidence or by a complete disclosure to another. Conception is more than a vague idea of how to solve a problem. The requisite means themselves and their interaction must also be comprehended. See Mergenthaler v. Scudder, 1897 C.D. 724, 81 O.G. 1417 (D.C. Cir. 1897).

The submitted 1.131 declaration provided evidence that cDNA encoding Fuc-TVII was in possession and it has been utilized to express Fuc-TVII enzyme in cells such as COS-7, and the expression has been confirmed by flow cytometry. However, the amended claims now disclose "isolated" Fuc-TVII. It is the examiner's position that the declaration does not provide evidence that the enzyme has been isolated, rather it appears that it was expressed in cells and analyzed by flow cytometry (Exhibit H). According to Exhibit I, the enzymatic activity has been determined in vitro using COS cell extract expressing Fuc-TVII. However, this evidence does not disclose "isolated" enzyme. Therefore, it cannot be interpreted as "isolated" enzyme. Applicant is advised to submit evidence to prove that the Fuc-TVII has been isolated prior to the Seed reference to overcome the claim rejection under 35 U.S.C. §103.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 37 and 38 stand rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Seed et al. (US 5,858,752) in view of Sasaki et al. (1994, J. Biol. Chem. 269:14730-14737).

Claims 37 and 38 are drawn to an isolated murine Fuc-TVII enzyme comprising a catalytic domain encoded by a segment identical to a polynucleotide amplified by SEQ ID NO:3 and SEQ ID NO:4 (claim 37); and the catalytic domain consisting of residue

Art Unit: 1651

2194 to 3085 of SEQ ID NO:1 (claim 38).

Seed et al. teach a murine Fuc-TVII enzyme, encoded from a murine Fuc-TVII cDNA, and any analog or fragment thereof (column 16, lines 34-37). Seed et al. also teach purification of Fuc-TVII polypeptide using anti-Fuc-TVII antibody (col. 13, lines 17-22).

Although Seed et al. do not particularly teach a catalytic domain of a murine Fuc-TVII enzyme, the fragments of a murine Fuc-TVII of Seed et al. comprise a fragment consisting of the catalytic domain of a murine Fuc-TVII enzyme. A person of ordinary skill in the art would deduce the sequence of the catalytic domain of a murine Fuc-TVII enzyme based from the catalytic domain of a human Fuc-TVII enzyme taught by Sasaki et al. (see Abstract).

It would therefore have been obvious for the person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to synthesize a murine Fuc-TVII enzyme of Seed et al. comprising a catalytic domain using a recombinant DNA technology based on the catalytic domain of a human Fuc-TVII of Sasaki et al.

The skilled artisan would have been motivated to make such a modification because the catalytic domain of the enzyme is a minimum requirement for the function of enzymatic activity. Therefore, a person of ordinary skill in the art would have been synthesized a murine Fuc-TVII enzyme comprising at least a catalytic domain of the enzyme by deducing the sequence of a murine Fuc-TVII based on a human sequence of Sasaki et al.

The person of ordinary skill in the art would have had a reasonable expectation of success in identifying a catalytic domain of a murine Fuc-TVII enzyme and generate a murine Fuc-TVII enzyme comprising a catalytic domain because it was successfully carried out by Sasaki et al. with human Fuc-TVII enzyme.

Therefore, the invention as a whole would have been prima facie obvious to a person of ordinary skill at the time the invention was made.

Conclusion

No claims are allowed.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
